

Survey: New York, Massachusetts bridges in need of repair

WNYT Staff

Tuesday, June 22, 2021

The Transportation Research Board (TRIP) found that 7% of interstate highway bridges in Massachusetts are structurally deficient. That's the fourth-highest percentage in the country.

New York came in just behind them in fifth with 6%.

You can read the full reports at the link below.

MORE INFORMATION: Bridge safety reports