

As Florida Grows, So Do Transportation Needs

By Will Althoff - December 14, 2021

Supply chain issues this holiday season, could continue into the new year according to TRIP Director of Policy and Research Rocky Moretti.

A new study from the group finds the I-95 corridor through Florida is one of the least reliable highways in the U-S, which contributes to supply chain issues.

But Moretti adds that while Florida is one of the fastest growing states in the country, it does a good job trying to maintain and improve its transportation systems.

TRIP
@TRIP_Inc

U.S. faces a $1 trillion backlog in projects needed to improve reliability, safety and condition of its road and bridge network ow.ly/VayG50Haca3 @TRIP_Inc @TRUCKINGdotORG @ChamberMoves #SupplyChain

AMERICA FACES A

$1 TRILLION

BACKLOG IN PROJECTS NEEDED TO IMPROVE RELIABILITY, SAFETY AND CONDITION OF THE NATION'S NETWORK OF ROADS AND BRIDGES

TRIP A National Transportation Research Nonprofit

WWW.TRIPNET.ORG

9:30 AM · Dec 14, 2021